

香港中文大學
The Chinese University of Hong Kong

Message

Founded in 1939, the Faculty of Science at the University of Hong Kong is the oldest faculty of its kind in local universities. Over the past 70 years the scope of its academic offerings has grown significantly in breadth and diversity, making important contributions to science education and initiating many a talented youth into the magnificent world of science. Through the unceasing efforts of its faculty members and researchers, new advances in the natural sciences have also been achieved, winning for themselves and the Faculty much recognition at the international level.

The Faculty of Science has done itself proud and served both Hong Kong and the international academia well. On the auspicious occasion of its platinum jubilee, I extend on behalf of The Chinese University of Hong Kong our heartiest congratulations to all its faculty, staff, students and alumni, and wish it continued success in its educational and research endeavours in the decades to come.

Lawrence J. Lau
Vice-Chancellor

The Chinese University of Hong Kong

March 2009